Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was discussed: The Examiner was of the view that claim 24 is overly broad because under one interpretation, if there is a unique code (which is an information field) for a contest as is commonly the case, and if that code is machine readable, then the claim limitations have been met. Other claims go into more detail by discussing such things as the linkage between the form and a page description stored in a remote computer.

The Applicant agreed to the cancellation of claims 24-29. In addition, the Applicant agreed in a brief additional communication to correct claim 20 to depend from claim 19 rather than from itself.

It is noted that the communication with Mr. Silverbrook occurred by email. A signed scanned document from Mr. Silverbrook was received by email which authorized email communications regarding the present case, with the acknowledgement that email communications are not secure and containing Mr. Silverbrook's signature and the signature of the other inventors. This is in accord with MPEP section 502.03..
